

Lifting restrictions on media cross-ownership is a bad idea!! The fact that there is very little media coverage of this pending decision just shows that there is already a problem with conflict of interest between corporate ownership of media and what gets covered in the news. The FCC is supposed to be protecting the interest of the American people, not helping facilitate corporate takeovers.